

Hi! I'm Buddy the Mission Blue Butterfly and I live at the Museum.

I spend my days flying around, looking for flowers to pollinate and meeting new friends. Follow the clues below to find me at my favorite spots at BADM.

Clue

I like to fly high above a red bridge that lets vehicles and people cross the Bay. At BADM, you'll find me perched on a model of this same bridge.

When you've found me, compare my perch to other areas at BADM. What spaces are taller? Shorter?

Clue

Sometimes I fly to explore the farthest reaches of the museum! You'll find me on the trail when you discover something large and made of metal that makes a big sound.

Use your sense of hearing to listen to and observe what's around you. Can you guess what is making the sounds?

Clue

I look for flowers to find the nectar I eat. I went to look for flowers here, but only found stairs that look like tree trunks.

Butterflies like me are endangered, which means there aren't very many of us and we need extra protection! Scientists are counting us in the wild. Practice your counting too - count the steps as you climb.

Clue

When the weather is foggy or damp, I like to hide underneath plants. At BADM you'll find me hiding around a hut made from a woven tree. Can you spot me?

Why do you think a butterfly might want to hide in damp weather? See if you can find other cozy hideouts and predict where you might find me next!
